

Unsure about RAAC?

Whether you've responded to the survey or don't know where to start, we're here to help.

The government has asked all schools to complete a questionnaire on Reinforced Autoclaved Aerated Concrete (RAAC). With our Building Surveying team, you can make sure you're taking the right steps to dealing with this material in your school.*

Our team are experienced in identifying RAAC and will be able to provide you with guidance on completing the survey, as well as what to do next.

It's easy to arrange your quick quality-assured inspection with us. We're used to working with busy people and we understand the importance of flexibility. We visit based on your schedule and will work around your day-to-day activity without disruptions.

Once the inspection's complete, we'll explain our findings and make suggestions in a concise, jargon-free report. This means you can spend less time worrying about RAAC and more time focusing on what makes your school amazing.

We support you in three easy steps:

- 1 Getting booked in
We book in a visit at a time and date that works for you and your school. We're on hand to discuss arrangements and make our visit as smooth as possible.
- 2 Visiting the school
Our Building Surveying team quickly inspect your buildings. We're used to working in educational environments and will make sure we don't disturb pupils or staff.
- 3 Planning your RAAC journey
We give you a clear and simple report of our findings, explaining how that impacts you. We'll advise you on what you should do next to make sure you're on the right track.

*It is possible that RAAC may be in an area that is inaccessible. In which case, we would recommend on the questionnaire that the DFE engage a specialist intrusive survey company to verify the area on your behalf.
