Keeping Children Safe in Education 2023: Online Safeguarding Focus

Technology continues to play a key role within a young person's life and therefore can present additional challenges, risks and issues to navigate accordingly. It can also be the vehicle for child-on-child/adult-on-child abuse concerns. Therefore, schools and colleges should effectively embed online safety into their whole school/college approach through policies, procedures, and an inclusive and preventative curriculum. The DSL has overall responsibility for online safety and should be supported by Governors. Over the past 2 years, within Keeping Children Safe in Education, the profile of online safeguarding has increased as the safeguarding concerns involving young people and technology grow. Join us to find out what the Keeping Children Safe in Education 2023 guidance contains regarding online safeguarding responsibilities for schools and colleges.

Governing Body Role in Cyber Security

Governing board members do not need to be technical experts, but they do need to know enough about cyber security to be able to engage in conversations with technical experts and senior leaders and know the right questions to ask to understand the organisation's cyber security approach; to provide challenge, and to help steer the strategic direction of cyber security within the organisation. Using toolkits from the National Cyber Security Centre the session will support governors to reflect on their role in relation to cyber security and how they can help their organisation to develop risk management and build a positive cyber security culture. Including questions to take back to begin having discussions about cyber security with senior leaders and technical staff.

Clerking for School and Academy Governors

As stated in the DfE Clerking Competency Framework, professional-quality clerking is about much more than taking minutes to record the discussions and decisions of the board.
